EDITORIAL

You Elected a Congressman— What Do You Want Him to Do?

Editor's Note: We are sincerely desirous that our readers shall comply with the request for letters made in the last paragraph of this editorial. Address them to the editor at 8 Cricket Ave., Ardmore. No unsigned letters will be printed, but your name will be withheld if you so request.

On a country-wide basis, there is no doubt that the 81st Congress received a people's mandate in November to follow Mr. Truman's leadership and vote Democratic.

What they are going to do is still any man's argument and any Congressman-elect's voting privilege.

Measured by this same yardstick, Montgomery and Delaware Counties are still very much Republican and expect their Congressmen to turn in party votes from their Congressional seats. But there are other parts of our country with their own opinions as to how Congressmen should act in Washington. Whether we, as a result of our conservative, reactionary reasoning here, believe it or not, there are Republican sections whose voters believe strongly and argue intelligently that the Republican Congressional vote should have to both an independent and a liberal line.

As we see it from this reasoning, they expect Delaware and Montgomery County Congressmen to turn in this kind of a performance. At least, that is their way of interpreting the results of the election.

A fair-minded Congressman might ask: "Is there any formula I can follow for fair-minded voting? Fair to myself, to my own constituents and to other parts of the country represented in the 81st Congress?"

The crux of such a query rests in how a Congressman interprets such questions. The first obstacle, with many political ramifications, is how a newly elected Congressman shall handle his political sponsors back home with their proffered advice and petitions for patronage. None of the newly elected knows the answer. But they all agree that whatever is done must be done with kid gloves.

We have observed this: that if a Congressman starts in a subservient mood he can count on having his mind enslaved before the session is adjourned. We suggest newly elected Congressmen start with a clean slate and make no moves in the beginning that will lead to entangling alliances before they are ready to pack their suitcases for home.

Let them turn a deaf ear to the big bosses back home, whether it is a "big boss" political stick they wave or just moneybags they jingle. In looking over the political scene, let them remember that, although he received a minority percentage of the votes cast, Harry Truman was elected by a vote of the people.

That is the path of true behavior for a man who aspires to true public service and sincere patriotism. He can serve only one master and that master in this case is the people. Because this is no easy road for a Congressman to travel, this publication invites letters on the subject. How would you urge your Congressman to vote? We invite all shades of opinion from all kinds of people.

West Manayunk Airman Returns Home After 19-Day Stay on Iccap

Sgt. Francis J. Sommers was on home for Christmas. He was on a bleak, wind-swept Greenland icecap with 11 other Army airmen awaiting a rescue which he was sure was coming, but how, he didn't know.

He's home now. He arrived at 6 P. M. Wednesday just as his sister, Mrs. Mary Rausher, and her family were arising from the dinner table at 156 Pencoyd Ave., West Manayunk.

Only his sister, his brother-in-law, John, and their three children, John, Jr., 19; George, 14, and Mary, were there. But within a half-hour, while Mary, Sr., was whipping up a chicken dinner for her brother, the rest of the family had arrived, and the 34-year-old sergeant was hard put to manage a few bites what with answering a barrage of questions.

Sommers was one of seven men who were stranded on the Greenland icecap December 9 when their C-47 plane made a forced landing. They and six others who were stranded later while attempting a rescue, were there until December 28, when they were taken to safety in a C-47 plane equipped with jets assisted takeoff rockets.

Dr. G. E. Barnes, Church Leader, Succumbs at 66

Pastor of Overbrook Church for 26 Years
Was National Figure

Rev. Dr. George Emerson Barnes, pastor of the Overbrook Presbyterian Church for more than 26 years and a national leader in his denomination, died last Wednesday, December 29, at his home, 6376 City Line Ave., Overbrook. He was 66.

Services were held Friday afternoon at the church, Lancaster Ave. and City Line Ave., and private burial was in West Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Since the end of World War II Dr. Barnes had served as National Chairman of the Presbyterian Church's $27,000,000 Restoration Fund Campaign for the relief of war-afflicted populations abroad. Under his direction the fund has grown to approximately 95 percent of its goal.

Dr. Barnes was a militant spokesman for unity among Christians of all denominations. He served as first president of the Philadelphia Council of Churches and as a delegate to the first assembly of the World Council of Churches which met last August in Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

Prior to his affiliation with the Philadelphia Council, Dr. Barnes had been president of the Philadelphia Federation of Churches, an earlier and similar organization, and from 1936 to 1938 he served as Moderator of the Presbytery of Philadelphia, the first man ever elected to two consecutive terms.

The Presbytery endorsed him in January for moderatorship of the church's general assembly. He received 252 votes, but withdrew after the fourth ballot.

Born in Hersey, Mich., May 26, 1882, he was graduated from Olivet College, in Michigan, in 1901. From 1904 to 1907 he was a Rhodes Scholar from Montana at Oxford, England. Dr. Barnes was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1907 and served as pastor of three different churches in Michigan before he was called to the Overbrook pulpit in 1922.

He is survived by his wife, the former Myrtle Kendall Montague, and three sons, Kendall M., of Washington; Dr. Allan C., a Columbia, O., physician, and Robert G., a State Department official who lives in Alexandria, Va., and a daughter, Margaret Elizabeth Barnes, of Philadelphia.

County Cited for No Bonded Indebtedness

Montgomery County, according to a statement made this week by William S. Livengood, Jr., State Secretary of Internal Affairs, is one of 15 Pennsylvania's 67 counties having no bonded indebtedness.

The other counties cited by Livengood include Bradford, Clarion, Cameron, Forest, Fulton, Franklin, Lancaster, Potter, Perry, Pike, Sullivan, Union, Wayne and Greene.

Russia Will Not Declare War Group is Told

George Kelso Speaks
To First 1949 Session
Of Community Club

"Russia" was the topic of a talk by George Kelso, of Drexel Hill, chemical engineer and world traveler. Tuesday afternoon at the first session of the new year of the Women's Community Club of Narberth, at the Community Building, Kelso, who has traveled through Russia several times, told the 150 members and guests in attendance that the Soviet Union will never declare war on the United States.

We will be the ones who will attack first if pushed into a corner, he said. He supported his contention by stating that Russia is in no way prepared to wage a war at the present time because of her lack of production. The vast number of soldiers, secret police, people in concentration camps and other non-productive citizens in the Soviet, he stated, considerably lower her output of vitally needed materials and render her virtually incapable of waging war on a major offensive scale.

"We hear so often," he said, "that the Russian people are afraid of the government. That is not so. It is the government which is afraid of the people, afraid of insurrection and revolt. But," he added, "that is highly unlikely because of the highly efficient and ruthless NKVD, secret police."

In speaking of women's place in world events Mr. Kelso said that the women of this country must unite in an effort to obtain a more stable U. S. foreign policy.

Mr. Kelso was introduced by Mrs. E. Milton Parran, Program Chairman. Mrs. Ellsworth Clark, President, presided.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. J. C. Keenan, Mrs. E. F. Chubb, and Mrs. J. H. Mosteller. Mrs. Roland Phillips and Mrs. Fred Isenberg. A meeting of the Literature Department has been scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at the Community Building. Mrs. Harold Greist is chairman and Mrs. Paul C. Rowland of Wynnewood, will review a non-fiction book.

Just for the Record

Did you ever wonder how Borough Policeman LeRoy "Boots" Peters got his nickname?

He probably wouldn't tell you, but we understand it happened this way: Seems "Boots" at the age of two years was voted the Most Beautiful Baby in an Atlantic City beauty contest, and promptly christened "Boots," which in time became "Boots." If he blushes when someone sings "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby," now you'll know why.

Now that the Christmas season is over, each one of us undoubtedly thinks that he received the nicest presents and had the most enjoyable holiday. But for Ehidio DiFilippo, a Narberth resident, this Christmas was the most wonderful.

DiFilippo, after a five year wait, received his United States citizenship papers at ceremonies held December 23 in the Montgomery County Court House, Norristown. Along with 13 other immigrants, he was welcomed to this country by Judge William F. Dannehower. The oath was administered by Deputy Prothonotary Abram D. Hallman.

Frank McGlinn Is Named Red Cross Fund Drive Head

Bryn Mawr Attorney Is
Navy Veteran; Active
In City Organizations

Frank C. P. McGlinn, of 976 Railroad Ave., Bryn Mawr, attorney and Navy veteran of the last war, was this week named chairman of the 1949 fund drive of the South-eastern Pennsylvania Chapter, American Red Cross.

No goal has as yet been fixed for the campaign which will open March 1 and continue throughout the month. Last year's goal for this area was $2,490,000.

McGlinn won the 1947 Distinguished Service Award and was selected as "The Young Man of the Year" in the same year, while president of the Philadelphia Junior Chamber of Commerce, he headed the local Friendship Train Committee.

He is national director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a trustee of the Free Library of Philadelphia, a member of the board of directors of the Philadelphia Round Table, National Conference of Christians and Jews, a member of the executive committee of the Citizens Emergency Committee for Universal Military Training.

During the last war, McGlinn served aboard minesweepers for three and a half years participating in the invasions of Anzio and southern France. He was wounded in an explosion in 1944.

He is a graduate of Penn Charter, the University of North Carolina and the University of Pennsylvania Law School. He is married and has two daughters.

Announce Promotion of Narberth Executive

Announcement of the promotion of James A. Barnes, of 22 Narberth Park, Narberth, from Assistant Treasurer to Assistant Vice President of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, Broad and Walnut Sts., Philadelphia, has been made.

Barnes, who formerly resided in Boston, Mass., was connected previously with Well, Pearson and Co., commercial paper bankers of Boston and Philadelphia, as head of the business department. He became associated with Fidelity early in 1948.

They are: Anne Cahill, Mary Peters and Mary McCurdy, all of Ardmore, and Sarah Fuller, of Bryn Mawr.

Open Meetings Listed by Post

Columnist and Navy
Films to be Featured

William Clapham, program chairman of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, of Narberth, announced this week that two open meetings have been scheduled.

The meetings, to be held January 25 and February 22, will be open to the public and all Narberth residents are urged to attend.

The January meeting will feature Don Rose, Philadelphia columnist, and at the February meeting color films of the atom bomb over Baku will be shown. The films are official U. S. Navy pictures.

Both meetings will be held at 8 P. M. in the Legion Rooms of the Narberth Community Building. Guy F. Mosteller, Post commander, stated that the annual membership campaign, under the direction of Philip Cappalonga, ended December 31. He added that 21 new members had joined during the campaign.

Herbert J. Tily, Executive, 82, Dies in Cynwyd

Former Store President
Succumbs Tuesday; Was
Civic Leader, Musician

Services for Herbert J. Tily, retired President of Strawbridge and Clothier, who died in his sleep Tuesday, January 28, at his home on Montgomery Ave., Cynwyd, were held Friday at St. John's Episcopal Church, Cynwyd. He was 82.

The three Strawbridge and Clothier Stores were closed all day Friday, and more than 1000 friends and former employees attended memorial services held in the auditorium of the city store.

Executive, musician and civic leader, Mr. Tily retired last year as President of Strawbridge and Clothier, where he went to work as a cash boy 69 years ago.

One of the country's foremost department store merchants, Dr. Tily rose by individual initiative and industry. Born at Farnham, England, in 1866, he was brought to this country by his parents when he was two years old. At 13 he entered the employ of Strawbridge and Clothier.

By 1905 he had become general manager of the store and in 1918 he was taken into the firm. Four years later he was elected vice president and in 1927 he was named president.

Although devoted to merchandising, Mr. Tily was a man of many and varied interests. One of the chief of these was music. A composer, conductor, violinist and organist, he was an active music patron. His musical education started when as a young boy he took violin lessons from a blind man whom he repaid by reading to him several hours a day.

In later life he became organist and choirmaster of St. John's Church, Cynwyd, where he was a vestryman, and continued active in his musical affairs until recently. He was responsible for the development of the Strawbridge and Clothier choral group, was president of the Philadelphia Music League, served as chairman of the Sesqui-Centennial music committee and directed the exposition's chorus of 5000 voices, headed by the Musical Art Club and was a director of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

His musical compositions were chiefly anthems and cantatas for the organ. A Republican and a Mason, Mr. Tily was a member of the Union League, Raquet Club, and the Philadelphia Country Club. His many other affiliations included directorships of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. He was vice-president of the Philadelphia Business Progress Association, a director of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania and the Fire Association of Philadelphia.

He is survived by two sons and two daughters. One of the latter, Miss Ethel H. Tily, made her home with her father. The sons, Harry C. L. Herbert, a daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Betts, 3d, live in three adjacent homes on Overhill Rd., Cynwyd. Mr. Tily's wife, the former Lucy P. Allen, of Philadelphia, whom he married on January 21, 1889, died November 13, 1937. Also surviving is his brother, Ell, of Cynwyd, retired purchasing agent of the John Wanamaker Store, and seven grandchildren.

Mr. Tily's estate, filed for probate in Norristown, Tuesday, was valued at $240,000. It was disclosed, however, that trust provisions indicated that the actual value was nearer $1,000,000. The bulk of the estate went to members of the immediate family.

Specific cash bequests, in addition to those made to members of the family, included several to his personal employees. To his personal secretary, Mrs. Tillie Hartwig McAlaine, he bequeathed $5000, in appreciation of her 27 years of service.

Named as executors and trustees of the estate were his two sons and the Girard Trust Company.

Dr. Roy K. Marshall Heads N. C. Planetarium

The appointment of Dr. Roy K. Marshall, 26 Elmwood Ave., Narberth, as director of the Moorehead Planetarium, at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, has been announced.

Dr. Marshall, who resigned recently as director of Fels Planetarium, Philadelphia, took over his new duties on January 1. Mrs. Marshall and their three children, Roy, Jr., 12; John, 6, and Bruce, 4, will live in Narberth until June. Dr. Marshall will commute to Narberth once a week in order to present his television program Monday evenings over station WPTZ, Philadelphia.

Mrs. George T. Pew Hurt In Auto-Track Crash

Mrs. George T. Pew, of 248 Chestnut Lane, Haverford, daughter-in-law of J. Howard Pew, former president of the Sun Oil Co., was hurt on the hands when an automobile she was driving collided with an American Stores Company truck at 16th and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, last Thursday.

Mrs. Pew was taken to the Hahnemann Hospital, where it was found she did not require emergency treatment. Police said she declined to prosecute the truck driver, William Snyder, of Reebin St., Philadelphia.

'48 'Healthy Year' For Township Board Reports

Figures Show Diseases
Low in Relation to
Total Population

Unless figures lie, 1948 was a healthy year for Lower Merion Township.

According to statistics released by the Board of Health, a total of 1670 contagious diseases were reported to date. In a population estimated at 45,000, this is approximately four percent. Of this number 1141, approximately two-thirds, were measles cases.

The 1947 total of 1402, a slightly lower figure, was distributed among various diseases and not confined to any one outbreak.

Comparative figures show 170 cases of chicken pox this year, as compared with 457 last year; 212 cases of mumps, as compared with 550 in 1947; 22 cases of whooping cough, as compared with 49 in 1947, and no cases of diphtheria, as compared with two in 1947.

The outbreak of measles which runs in cycles, according to Health Officer Robert J. Thomas, happened in the first few months of the year and is the first since a similar epidemic in 1943.

Another outbreak which ran up this year's figures, but again is the result of a cycle, is polio. Eighteen cases were reported in 1948, as compared with two in 1947. However, there were no fatalities this year. There was one polio death.

The worst month in 1948 was January, with 431 cases, and two months tied for honor places as the best. In both September and October only 19 cases were listed.

Center Resumes Classes In Art

List New Group to Meet Bi-Monthly

Art classes at the Bryn Mawr Art Center were resumed this week after an interruption of several weeks. A newly decorated and enlarged studio was used for the first time with the classes resumed. A permanent faculty exhibit was displayed in the first floor music room when the Center opened Monday.

Maudsby Kimball, Jr., director of the Center, stated that a new class for parents and teachers, under the direction of Dr. Ella D. Kilgus, president of the Center, met for the first time on the opening day, and would be held in the future on the first and third Monday of each month.

The second of a series of courses in the making of lampshades, led by Mrs. Leonard Rodenhause, will start next Thursday, and a class in ceramics, in charge of Thomas Ryder, will meet on Tuesday evenings, starting next week. Franz de Merlie will conduct a life class on Friday mornings.

Other adult classes to be resumed are oil and water color painting, under the direction of Maudsby Kimball, Jr., Cyril Gardner, Franz de Merlie and Helen Norris Tuttle. Early American decoration of tinware and furniture will be taught by Mrs. Ruth Hill Kephart. Fabric design; textile painting and silk screening will be led by Mrs. Harold Webber. Two classes in sculpture will be taught by Charlotte Ridpath and Mme. Helena Zelenka.

The music department includes piano, violin and voice under the direction of staff members of the New School of Music.

Mrs. Catherine Roberts, art teacher at Temple University High School, will be the guest speaker at the January 13 meeting of the Art Teachers Workshop.

Classes which are planned for the future are adult dancing and book-binding. Also included in future plans are exhibits by members and students, children's programs and concerts by students of the New School of Music.

Narberth UMSC To Attend Classes

The Volunteer Medical Corps of Narberth is one of seven similar groups in the Philadelphia area chosen to attend a series of classes in rescue practice, first aid and fire fighting being conducted at the Manoa Fire Hall under the sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Disaster Corps.

The classes, which began Monday night, will be held on the first and third Mondays of each month, under the direction of Charles Drepard, commander of the Philadelphia District of the Pennsylvania Disaster Corps.

Chief Instructor H. N. Stecker, of the Box 1776 Association of Philadelphia, will be assisted by E. J. Lavery, of the Box 1176 Association; Captain Edward Eastlack, of the Manoa Fire Company; Captain Frank Figaro, of the Philadelphia Navy Yard Fire Department; and H. S. Osborne, instructor of mechanical resuscitation.

ON AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Cmdr. Harold James Rickard, medical corps, USN, of 413 Haverford Ave., Narberth, is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Tarawa in the western Pacific and China Seas area, according to a Navy report issued this week.
